

Kerberos Authentication as an option for the named Presto connector

---

LDAP was recently added as an auth type for Presto, and I would love to have Kerberos as well. Without it being present in the named connector, we're forced to use a generic ODBC connection and configure all of the authentication manually. This is much harder for the end user, and misses out on the customization and tuning built into the named Presto connector.